MICROSOFT LIMITED: Microsoft Christmas card looks to boost NSPCC
fundraising efforts

M2 PRESSWIRE

December 17, 1998

Microsoft is helping to bring Christmas cheer to children this year through a special Christmas card which publicises the NSPCC's recently launched website for on-line donations - www.microsoft.com/uk/nspcc/.

The card features the NSPCC's recently launched 'Happy Kids' characters and a link to the website, which was designed by Microsoft. Users simply click on the 'Help a child' icon to make donations by credit card, debit card or cash pledges.

12,000 cards have been printed and they are available free to Microsoft's UK staff.

"The Christmas card and the website is an extension of Microsoft's longstanding support for the NSPCC and is a great example of technology being used to enhance the fundraising activities of charities," explained Microsoft's Director of Marketing Services, Shaun Orpen. "The cards have been very popular with our staff and I hope they will encourage the people who receive them to donate some money to the NSPCC this Christmas."

Microsoft has funded the NSPCC's School Fundraising Programme for the last five years, enabling it to raise more than GBP 10 million.

Following new tax rules on charitable deductions

ABSTRACT: The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 (OBRA) established new rules governing individuals who make donations to charitable organizations and organizations that provide goods and services in return for charitable donations. Healthcare financial managers and fund-raising personnel need to become familiar with these rules so that they can assure that donors of charitable contributions to their organizations will receive appropriate tax deductions and that the organizations themselves will not incur penalties for failing to make proper disclosures. OBRA requires that contributions made to charitable organizations in the amount of $250 or more must be substantiated by the donee organizations in order to be deducted from taxes by the donor. The disclosure requirement is imposed on charitable organizations when a single contribution exceeding $75 is made, but only part of the contribution is an actual donation.

TEXT: On August 10, 1993, President Bill Clinton signed into law the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 (OBRA '93). Among the many provisions of OBRA '93 are requirements that affect the ability of individuals to receive tax credit for donations they make to charitable organizations. OBRA '93 also describes the penalties incurred by charitable organizations that fail to disclose the tax deductible portion of a good or service given in return for a charitable donation. The requirements, which cover donations of cash as well as real property, goods, and services, are effective for charitable contributions made after December 31, 1993.

These requirements are the Federal government's most recent attempt to eliminate perceived abuses of tax laws regarding the deductibility of charitable contributions. The abuses have not involved the healthcare industry specifically. Rather, they have arisen because of the relationship between religious organizations, education, and day care. Many canceled checks made payable to religious organizations have been used to justify tax deductions for charitable contributions when, in fact, the checks represent payments for education or day care. Nevertheless, it would be naive to assert that abuses in the area of charitable contributions have not occurred in the healthcare industry.

DONOR SUBSTANTIATION

OBRA '93 requires that contributions made to charitable organizations, defined as 501(c)(3) or similar entities, in the amount of $250 or more must be substantiated by the donee organization in order to be deducted from taxes by the donor.

In past years, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) commonly allowed a deduction if the taxpayer used a canceled check to substantiate that a donation had been made to a charitable organization. The IRS no longer will accept canceled checks as substantiation for charitable donations. Individuals who make charitable contributions now must obtain from donee organizations written substantiation of the donations prior to filing a tax return for the year in which the charitable contribution was made.

The responsibility for obtaining written substantiation of a charitable contribution equal to or in excess of $250 rests with the taxpayer who is claiming an itemized deduction in that amount. Tax-exempt organizations that fail to acknowledge or substantiate such donations will not incur any tax penalties. However, organizations that do not provide the information their donors need to claim a deduction for a contribution surely place future contributions from these donors at risk.

Accordingly, each healthcare organization should amend its policies and procedures for acknowledging donations to assure that donors of contributions equal to or in excess of $250 receive sufficient substantiation to claim a deduction for tax purposes.

Written acknowledgment of donations need not include the donor's Social Security or tax identification number. It should, however,

- * State the amount of cash that was donated.
- * Fully describe noncash contributions involving real property. The donor is responsible for valuation of real property donated to a charitable organization. The tax-exempt entity, therefore, need not assign or estimate the value of the real property.
- * Describe and estimate the value of any goods and/or services provided by the donor as a charitable contribution.
- * Acknowledge when the donor organization provides goods or services as partial consideration for the contribution.

Examples of written acknowledgments for gifts of cash and services appear in Exhibits 1 and 2.

ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL 427 MAIN STREET BLAIR, MONTANA 47774

Mrs. Delores Grant 416 Briarwood Blvd. Taylor, Montana 47777

Dear Mrs. Grant:

This is to acknowledge your very generous contribution of $5,000 to the Hospital. In compliance with your request, this gift will be used to support the prenatal care rendered in conjunction with our Women's Center program.

Again, Mrs. Grant, thank you so much for your thoughtfulness, and your continued support of St. Joseph Hospital.

Sincerely,

Melvin E. Wise

ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL 427 MAIN STREET BLAIR, MONTANA 47774

Mr. Gordon C. King President King Construction, Inc. 6772 West 43rd Street
Elderberg, Montana 47775

Dear Mr. King:

Thank you very much for your gift of construction improvements to our south vestibule. The estimates we had received for the work done range from $3,500 to $4,250. Based on these estimates, and with the approval of the finance committee of the hospital, we have valued the addition at $3,875. You may wish to seek the counsel of your tax advisor as to how much of this amount may be tax-deductible to you or your firm.

Again, Mr. King, thank you so much for your thoughtfulness and your continued support of St. Joseph Hospital.

Sincerely,

Melvin E. Wise Director of Development

Individual gifts in amounts less than $250 are not aggregated and, therefore, do not require written substantiation from donee organizations. For example, if an employee were to make biweekly contributions of $15 to the organization through a payroll deduction plan, he or she would not need to receive a written acknowledgment for the $390 in yearly contributions. However, if the employee made a single contribution in the amount of $390, written substantiation would be necessary.

Financial managers and fundraising personnel should watch for donors who may attempt to avoid obtaining substantiation of their contributions. For example, a donor may try to skirt the substantiation requirement by writing several small checks to the same charitable organization on the same date.(a) The total amount of such contributions should be acknowledged in a formal letter.

DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS

OBRA '93 specifies that charitable organizations must meet certain documentation requirements when they hold fund-raising events or engage in other activities that provide the donor with goods or services in exchange for a contribution. The disclosure requirement is imposed when a single charitable contribution exceeding $75 is made, but only part of the contribution is an actual donation.

Charitable organizations must provide donors of such contributions with a written statement that specifies the portion of the contribution that is deductible and the portion of the contribution that is being used to pay for goods or services furnished to the donor (Exhibit 3).

EXHIBIT 3: DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL 427 MAIN STREET BLAIR, MONTANA 47774
Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne A. Jobst 2224 Barkwood Trial Smithville, Montana 47771

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Jobst:

Thank you so much for attending our annual Sponsor's Ball last Saturday evening at the Stouffer's City Center Hotel. Of the $200 ticket price to the ball, we estimate that $37.55 per ticket is attributable to the dinner and entertainment expenses for the evening. Accordingly, $324.90 of your $400 donation is tax-deductible.

I hope that you had as fine a time as I did on Saturday evening and that you will be inclined to join us again next year at the Ball.

Again, Mr. and Mrs. Jobst, thank you so much for your thoughtfulness and your continued support of St. Joseph Hospital.

Sincerely,

Melvin E. Wise Director of Development

These amounts can be based on the anticipated budget for a fundraising event, and must represent fair-market value. Financial managers may take the responsibility for determining these amounts or for reviewing amounts quoted by the development office or fund-raising foundation on the basis of an audit of the event's anticipated budget.

Tax-exempt organizations may make such disclosures in their solicitation materials, invitations, or tickets for fund-raising events, as long as the disclosure is reasonably likely to come to the attention of the donor. (b)

Organizations need not also send a statement when a donation is received under these circumstances. For example, an organization may print on the invitation to a fund-raising event the portion of the ticket price considered tax-deductible. This organization does not need to send separate disclosure statements later to those who attend the event.

Tax-exempt organizations need not disclose distributions of goods or services in exchange for contributions when those goods or services are considered insubstantial (e.g., coffee cups with the organization's logo, key chains, ballpoint pens). Charitable organizations need not make disclosures for goods and services when a donation is not intended by the donor. For example, visitors who purchase items from the hospital gift shop are not making a donation when part of the purchase price includes a percentage mark-up.

The disclosure statement must be received by the donor on or before the earlier of two dates: 1) the date the donor files a tax return for the year in which the contribution was made; or 2) the due date, including extensions, for filing the return. Charitable organizations that fail to make the required disclosure may be subject to a penalty of $10 for every contribution made up to a maximum of $5,000 for a fund-raising event or mailing.

CONCLUSION

Every tax-exempt organization should review its disclosure policies and procedures as quickly as possible to ensure they comply with new provisions concerning the tax deductibility of charitable contributions. This exercise should be undertaken to ensure that donors will be allowed to deduct their gifts and to avoid penalties for non-compliance to disclosure.

Following new tax rules on charitable deductions

...ABSTRACT: Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 (OBRA) established new rules governing individuals who make donations to charitable organizations and organizations that provide goods and services in return for charitable donations. Healthcare financial managers and fund-raising personnel need to become familiar with these rules so that they can assure that donors of charitable contributions to their organizations will receive appropriate tax deductions and that the organizations themselves will not incur penalties for failing to make proper disclosures. OBRA requires that contributions made to charitable organizations in the amount of $250 or more must be substantiated by the donee organizations...

...TEXT: that affect the ability of individuals to receive tax credit for donations they make to charitable organizations. OBRA '93 also describes the penalties incurred by charitable organizations that fail to disclose the tax deductible portion of a good or service given in return for a charitable donation. The requirements, which cover donations of cash as well as real property, goods, and services, are effective for charitable contributions made after December 31, 1993.

These requirements are the Federal government's most recent attempt to eliminate perceived abuses of tax laws regarding the deductibility of charitable contributions. The abuses have not involved the healthcare industry specifically. Rather, they have arisen because...

...canceled checks made payable to religious organizations have been used to justify tax deductions for charitable contributions when, in fact, the checks represent payments for education or day care. Nevertheless, it would be naive to assert that abuses in the area of charitable contributions have not occurred in the healthcare industry.

The IRS no longer will accept canceled checks as substantiation for charitable donations. Individuals who make charitable contributions now must obtain from donee organizations written substantiation of the donations prior to filing a tax return for the year in which the charitable contribution was made.

The responsibility for obtaining written substantiation of a charitable contribution equal to or in excess of $250 rests with the taxpayer who is claiming...

Survey of South Africa (35): Net benefit may prove marginal - Foreign aid

TEXT:

Few international aid causes are more popular than South Africa's appeal for assistance in redressing the legacy of apartheid. Raising funds, however, may prove to be easier than putting them to efficient use, and if aid is seen as a substitute for investment the net benefit may prove marginal.

If pledges are taken at their face value, South Africa can expect up to R10bn over the next five years, from a variety of bilateral and multilateral donors.

Leading the field is Japan, which earlier this month unveiled what it called its largest aid package to a single country - Dollars 1.3bn over two years. Mr Katsumi Sezaki, Japan's ambassador to South Africa, said that almost all the aid was untied, bar a Dollars 100m export-import credit facility aimed at promoting trade between the two countries. But a further Dollars 400m worth of export-import bank loans were untied, he said.

Of the balance, Dollars 250m would be in the form of soft loans - seven years' grace and a 25-year repayment period at 3 per cent interest. A further Dollars 500m in the package represented the amount of private investment and commercial credits the Japanese government was prepared to guarantee.

Next on the list is the US which has offered R2bn over three years, while a host of other bilateral donors have chipped in including Australia (R700m over three years), the European Union is offering over R400m; the UK will provide R560m over three years.

Meanwhile the African Development Bank says it can release between R720m and R1,200m of project-linked finance over five years.

Past experience in Africa has shown that aid has mixed results and even allowing for South Africa's considerable pool of skills, handling resources on this scale will not be easy. The amount on offer, however, may not be as much as it seems. As is so often the case, assessing what may be termed the 'real money' - that is assistance that is readily available and which can be rapidly disbursed - is not straightforward.

Although trade cover and investment guarantees can be put to good use, including them in the category of 'aid' can give a misleading impression of what is available for conventional aid projects - health, housing, education, and so on.

Development packages almost invariably include aid tied to purchases from the donor country, which can prove expensive. A recent study by a British development charity calculated that the resulting lack of competition can add anything from 10 to 15 per cent to the price of the items ordered from the donor country.

Another way of boosting bilateral aid figures in press releases is to include the contributions made by western governments to multilateral lending institutions, United Nations agencies, or money that would be channeled through European Union aid schemes.

A further device used by some donors is to include estimates of the benefits for South African exporters from introducing favourable tariff changes made in the wake of President Mandela's inauguration.

Given the competition between donors as to who will appear the most generous - which in turn may influence the South African government when it comes to allocating contracts for state-backed or funded projects - the donors themselves are often reluctant to make clear the precise benefits and terms of their offers.

In short, the arithmetic of aid is complex and South Africa, unused to being a recipient, may sometimes be too inclined to take promises at face value. Significantly, the World Bank, potentially South Africa's largest multilateral donor, is reluctant to put a figure to planned lending, although some officials have suggested a figure of about Dollars 1bn a year in the initial phase.

Mr Isaac Sam, the Bank's resident representative in South Africa, says that foreign aid is 'rather crucial' in South Africa's development. What is more, fund raising 'has to be done fairly rapidly' in order to take advantage of the goodwill South Africa presently enjoys.

But Mr Sam cautions that aid alone cannot deliver the economic growth that the country needs. While the Bank plans to provide substantial aid, foreign and domestic investment are the keys to post-apartheid growth: 'The real resources for South Africa are in the international capital market, not donors', says Mr Sam.

A checklist for Website exemption issues can be found in Exhibit 1 on p. 349.

Fundraising Issues

The solicitation disclosures that apply to written and broadcast requests for donations, membership dues and other forms of payments in support of (or to qualify for participation in) programs by charities, civic welfare organizations, labor unions and business leagues²⁰ also apply to Internet requests. Under Sec. 170(f)(8), to be able to claim a deduction for a donation of $250 or more to a Sec. 501 (c) (3) organization, a donor must have...

...and, if so, their value. Although for privacy reasons it may not be desirable, a charity could conceivably provide such acknowledgements on its Website. The regulations already list letters, postcards or computer-generated forms as acceptable.

An e-receipt...

...provided in a quid pro quo solicitation similarly should be acceptable if displayed on a Website. Although the IRS has yet to issue official guidance on this issue, it expects to...

...dues and similar payments are subject to very specific disclosure rules, because they are not charitable organizations. Such organizations must also disclose the portion (if any) of the payments that will...

...at and for how long." All of the following conditions need to exist for a Website solicitation to meet the requirements:

1. The solicitation includes an express statement that payments are not tax deductible as charitable contributions.
2. The statement is at least the same type size as the primary message...

...statement is either the first sentence in a paragraph or itself constitutes a paragraph.

Online donation sites, such as www.4charity.com, solicit gifts on behalf of charities. Typically, the site operator signs up charities and turns over the donations collected, less a handling fee, to the organizations. The charities perform no services and allow only the use of their name. When no goods are...

...donors, they certainly should receive a contribution deduction. The nature of the payments to the charity depends partly on whether the agreement between it and the site operator creates an agency relationship. When the operator simply acts as a collector of gifts, a charitable deduction for the donor (and corresponding donation revenue for the charity) result.

Additional questions arise in connection with cause-related marketing sites, such as www.shop2give.com, on which the merchant agrees to donate a portion of each sale to charity.²⁴ Another version of this type of fundraising is electronic script.²⁵ Whether a purchaser or seller can consider a payment a donation depends on their respective motivations. A gift occurs only when a donor makes (or in this case, causes) a gift out of disinterested generosity.²⁶ When the price the purchaser pays is the same whether or not a donation is made, there is no donation. Similarly a purchase discount allowed by the seller does not constitute a donation. The character of payments a charity receives from such sites is yet another issue. Generally such payments will not represent donations, but rather, payments for the use of the charity's name. The revenue should be treated as taxable only if the charity is required to perform services in connection with earning it. If the recipient charity's role is a passive one in which it renders no services to the merchant, the resulting revenue to the charity should be treated as exempt royalty income.²⁷

Unrelated Business Aspects

The character of revenues...

COCA-COLA AND SUPER BOWL XXX Fact Sheet

COCA-COLA PRESENTS THE NFL EXPERIENCE

The Coca-Cola Company is the title sponsor of the NFL Experience, the 800,000 square-foot pro football theme park located at ASU's Sun Devil Stadium. The NFL Experience will be open Jan. 19-21, 25-28. Highlights of Coca-Cola involvement with the NFL Experience:

NFL Experience Tickets -- Coca-Cola has made 4,000 tickets available to Arizona consumers through its "Thirst for Thirty" under-the-cap promotion. In addition, consumers in Arizona can receive a free child's admission to the event with purchase of an adult ticket and a label from any specially marked 2-liter bottle of Coca-Cola product.

Coca-Cola/NFL Experience ON TOUR -- Coca-Cola took the NFL Experience "on the road" in December and January, providing more than 20,000 students from 14 Valley Area junior and senior high schools an opportunity to test their football skills through a traveling version of the interactive Super Bowl attraction.

Coca-Cola/NFL Experience For Kids Day -- More than 2,800 Phoenix-area fourth grade students will get a free sneak preview of the NFL Experience on Wednesday, Jan. 23. In addition to the games and attractions, each young NFL fan will receive a t-shirt, fanny pack, autograph notepad and lunch, courtesy of Coca-Cola. NFL players will be on hand to assist the kids with the games and sign autographs. The students earned the sneak preview through participation in the NFL's IT'S A FACT, an esteem-building educational program designed to help young people think about important personal issues and make smart, healthy choices.

Coca-Cola Play Football Kids' Zone -- A new element at the NFL Experience where even the smallest of All-Pros can show off their stuff in an area designed specifically for them.

COCA-COLA PRESENTS: TASTE OF THE NFL V

Fast becoming one of Super Bowl weekend's hottest events, "Coca-Cola Presents: Taste of the NFL V" is a food- and wine-tasting charity gala featuring prominent chefs and former players from each of the NFL's 30 cities. The all-star chefs and players will prepare and serve gourmet dishes representing their hometowns at the star-studded, $300-a-plate dinner, held 7:30 p.m. - 9:30 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 27 at the Arizona Biltmore in Phoenix. In addition to food, the evening includes a silent auction of memorabilia donated by NFL players, including autographed helmets, jerseys and footballs. Proceeds from the event will go to local and national hunger relief organizations.

SUPER BOWL XXX COMMEMORATIVE BOTTLE

The Phoenix Coca-Cola Bottling Company celebrated the arrival of the NFL's championship game by producing a limited-edition, Super Bowl XXX commemorative bottle of Coca-Cola classic. Approximately 35,000 cases of the 8-oz. bottles were distributed throughout Arizona in January. A donation of 50 cents per case will be made to the Valley Big Brothers/Big Sisters. In addition, Super Bowl XXX commemorative 12-oz. cans of Coca-Cola classic and diet Coke were made available at retail outlets throughout the state.

SUPER BOWL XXX TICKETS

Lucky Arizona consumers won 20 Super Bowl tickets through "Thirst for Thirty," a statewide promotion conducted by the Coca-Cola bottlers in Phoenix, Tucson and Flagstaff.

BANK ONE SUPER BOWL STREET SPECTACULAR

Bank One Super Bowl Street Spectacular -- the signature event of the Super Bowl XXX Host Committee -- is a food, music and entertainment celebration of the NFL's biggest game. The event will feature Coca-Cola Road Trip, a radically customized, 20-ton tractor trailer that unfolds into a 40,000-square-foot entertainment complex. The event will be held from 7 p.m. - midnight, Saturday, Jan. 27 at Mill Avenue in Downtown Tempe. Fans can attend by purchasing commemorative Street Spectacular buttons ($16).

SUPER BOWL SUNDAY CAMPUS CELEBRATION

Coca-Cola is a sponsor of Super Bowl Sunday Campus Celebration, a giant football party designed to involve the entire Arizona State University community in the spirit of Super Bowl XXX. Students, faculty and staff will enjoy the game on a giant (10' by 12') Sony Jumbotron television screen, courtesy of Coca-Cola. In addition, fans will be able to test their athletic skills on the elements from Coca-Cola Road Trip. The free event is open only to persons affiliated with ASU.

SUPER BOWL FIESTA '96

Soltrus Offers VeriSign Internet Payment Gateway to Simplify Online Credit Card Payments for any Business
CANADA NEWswire
April 04, 2002
JOURNAL CODE: WCNW LANGUAGE: English RECORD TYPE: FULLTEXT
WORD COUNT: 1043

Online payment service can be customized for even the smallest business TORONTO, April 3 /CNW/ - Soltrus Inc., a new national provider of digital trust services, today announced the launch of Payflow Pro and Payflow Link from VeriSign, Inc., the leading provider of digital trust services. Both VeriSign Payflow Pro and Payflow Link are real-time, scalable Internet payment services that enable businesses to authorize, process, and manage online credit card payments with confidence. Soltrus' offering of VeriSign's Payflow services provides a simple Internet payment solution to Canadian businesses, linking buyers, sellers and the financial networks. "With Payflow, Soltrus is providing Canadian businesses with a virtual Point of Sale terminal for their online stores," said Riza Chui, Product Marketing Manager at Soltrus. "Running a trusted online business is a complex task, and every company has different needs. Soltrus' range of payment services allows all merchants, large or small, to focus on their core business, while providing a cost-effective and easy way to securely manage online payments." Soltrus is the only Canadian service provider that offers customizable payment solutions requiring little or no integration with existing e-commerce platforms and applications. Regardless of a Web site's transaction volume or support requirements, Soltrus services can scale quickly and easily to meet growing or changing business demands. Additionally, most businesses will find the Soltrus trusted payment solution to be their most economical alternative. "We recently integrated Soltrus online credit card payments with an e.Bill application for one of our clients," said Greg Romman, Senior Software Specialist, TELUS Enterprise Solutions. "The Soltrus product documentation and technical support were excellent and contributed to a very rapid and successful implementation. The Soltrus trusted online payment solution has been live for about a month now, and has surpassed our expectations." McMaster University of Hamilton, Ontario recently installed Payflow Pro on their Web site. "The Office of University Advancement at McMaster University went live with Soltrus on March 4 as part of our new alumni community project" said John McKay, Director, Advancement Services, McMaster University. "This Web site, in addition to offering many new online services, allows alumni and donors to make secure online charitable gifts via credit card to the University. The Soltrus solution has worked very well and we are very optimistic that our alumni and donors will find this an easy and quick way to donate ." The Payflow service offering was designed with three levels of service in order to meet the full range of merchants' online payment needs - from small to medium to large-sized businesses: Payflow Link -

Merchants simply add an HTML hyperlink to their Web sites, connecting customers to secure checkout pages hosted by Soltrus. Merchants don't have to worry about extensive Web development work since they outsource the checkout process to Soltrus. VeriSign Payflow Link automates order acceptance, authorization, processing and transaction management. The Payflow solution ensures that credit card information is encrypted for security. Soltrus also works with merchants to recommend best practices for security from points A to Z in the transaction process. Payflow Link is ideal for businesses that process fewer than 1,000 transactions per month, and prefer a solution that requires no programming experience. Customers can choose a subscription fee of $499.50 per year, or a monthly fee of $49.95. There is a one-time set-up fee of $299. Payflow Pro - A high-performance communication agent hosted at the merchant's site, this service offers back-end connectivity to all leading payment processing networks. Payflow Pro can be easily integrated into shopping carts and e-commerce platforms, and comes pre-integrated with many off-the-shelf shopping cart applications. As a result, merchants can quickly start accepting online payments. Payflow Pro is designed for merchants who process between 1,000 and 5,000 transactions per month, have access to a programmer, and want to "own" the customer experience. Customers can choose a subscription fee of $1,499.50 per year, or a monthly fee of $149.95. There is a one-time set-up fee of $399. Payflow Pro Premium - Payflow Pro Premium has all the features of Payflow Pro, but supports 5,000 to 10,000 transactions per month. Customers can choose a subscription fee of $9,999.50 per year, or a monthly fee of $999.95. There is a one-time set-up fee of $399. Canadian merchants can easily purchase VeriSign Payflow products from Soltrus online at the Soltrus Web site, <http://www.soltrus.com>. Information and instructions for configuring or integrating Payflow products into a merchant's Web site are available online after purchase through a Web-based merchant administration site. The site is available for merchants to manage their Payflow accounts and view their transactions twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. For merchants who require assistance with the Payflow products, Soltrus provides customer support by phone or email Monday through Friday from 9:00 am EST to 6:00 pm EST. About Soltrus Soltrus Inc. was formed on November 30th, 2001 and operates as an independent Canadian company that draws on the expertise of business partners TELUS, CIBC and VeriSign Inc.; leaders in the telecommunications, financial and digital trust environments. COCA-COLA AND SUPER BOWL XXX
Fact Sheet

COCA-COLA PRESENTS THE NFL EXPERIENCE

The Coca-Cola Company is the title sponsor of the NFL Experience, the 800,000 square-foot pro football theme park located at ASU's Sun Devil Stadium. The NFL Experience will be open Jan. 19-21, 25-28. Highlights of Coca-Cola involvement with the NFL Experience:

NFL Experience Tickets -- Coca-Cola has made 4,000 tickets available to Arizona consumers through its "Thirst for Thirty" under-the-cap promotion. In addition, consumers in Arizona can receive a free child's admission to the event with purchase of an adult ticket and a label from any specially marked 2-liter bottle of Coca-Cola product.

Coca-Cola/NFL Experience ON TOUR -- Coca-Cola took the NFL Experience "on the road" in December and January, providing more than 20,000 students from 14 Valley Area junior and senior high schools an opportunity to test their football skills through a traveling version of the interactive Super Bowl attraction.

Coca-Cola/NFL Experience For Kids Day -- More than 2,800 Phoenix-area fourth grade students will get a free sneak preview of the NFL Experience on Wednesday, Jan. 23. In addition to the games and attractions, each young NFL fan will receive a t-shirt, fanny pack, autograph notepad and lunch, courtesy of Coca-Cola. NFL players will be on hand to assist the kids with the games and sign autographs. The students earned the sneak preview through participation in the NFL's IT'S A FACT, an esteem-building educational program designed to help young people think about important personal issues and make smart, healthy choices.

Coca-Cola Play Football Kids' Zone -- A new element at the NFL Experience where even the smallest of All-Pros can show off their stuff in an area designed specifically for them.

COCA-COLA PRESENTS: TASTE OF THE NFL V

Fast becoming one of Super Bowl weekend's hottest events, "Coca-Cola Presents: Taste of the NFL V" is a food- and wine-tasting charity gala featuring prominent chefs and former players from each of the NFL's 30 cities. The all-star chefs and players will prepare and serve gourmet dishes representing their hometowns at the star-studded, $300-a-plate dinner, held 7:30 p.m. - 9:30 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 27 at the Arizona Biltmore in Phoenix. In addition to food, the evening includes a silent auction of memorabilia donated by NFL players, including autographed helmets, jerseys and footballs. Proceeds from the event will go to local and national hunger relief organizations.

SUPER BOWL XXX COMMEMORATIVE BOTTLE

The Phoenix Coca-Cola Bottling Company celebrated the arrival of the NFL's championship game by producing a limited-edition, Super Bowl XXX commemorative bottle of Coca-Cola classic. Approximately 35,000 cases of the 8-oz. bottles were distributed throughout Arizona in January. A
